
Visualizing Residual Income

Your decision to be wealthy will require a big change in the way you relate to money. If you've been working all your life for a paycheck, you'll find it most difficult to picture life, as it would be if you no longer worked to earn a living.

So, before you attempt to choose 'BEING wealthy' as your new reality, you will want to create a vivid picture in your mind of what that experience would look and feel like.

Empowering your vision

Whether or not you make your new BEING WEALTHY choice will depend on the amount of joy and enthusiasm you put into your vision of life being that good.

You do not need to know how

Before you can ever be wealthy, you must first choose to be. And your greatest barrier to making that BEING choice will be your belief that you must know how it will happen before you can choose. The fact is, it's the other way around.

Only after you've made your empowered decision be BE Wealthy, you will become aware of all the residual income opportunities now available to you that you'd never noticed before.

Here's What I would be doing if I were wealthy:
Example: I'd be going on four ocean cruises a year, coming back each time with more money in the bank than when I left on the cruise.

Once you create a vision of what you would be doing if you were already wealthy, choose to be the one in that picture and then watch the opportunities show up in your life. You then only need choose which one is for you.
